RENAISSANCE FLORENCE SUBJECT OF ART MUSEUM LECTURE

POLITICS AND ART IN RENAISSANCE FLORENCE will be discussed at The Cleveland Museum of Art on Friday April 21 at 8:15 p.m. by Marvin B. Becker, Associate Professor of History at Western Reserve University. He will trace the relationship between political and artistic changes during the period in Florence.

Becker was born in Philadelphia and educated at the University of Pennsylvania where he received his Ph.D. in Medieval History. He has received Fulbright and Guggenheim grants and has done research in the Archivio di Stato in Florence. He has taught at the University of Arkansas and Baldwin-Wallace College, and has been on the staff of Western Reserve University since 1955.

The lecture is open free to the public.
